

ELECTION LAW UNIT

FULL-TIME ATTORNEY

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

The New Hampshire Department of Justice has a full-time attorney vacancy in the Election Law Unit. The ideal candidate will have litigation experience, commitment to the non-partisan enforcement of election laws, capacity to work well under pressure, and aptitude for effectively communicating with elections officials and the general public.

The Election Law Unit is responsible for investigating and prosecuting violations of New Hampshire's election laws in addition to regulatory enforcement of campaign finance and elections procedures. It partners with the Secretary of State's Office to train state and local elections officials regarding election procedures and provides advice and assistance to officials on election days. Fully staffed, the Unit consists of two attorneys, two investigators, and a paralegal working within a collaborative and collegial environment.

The successful candidate must have a Juris Doctor from an accredited law school and be a member in good standing of the New Hampshire Bar (or waiver eligible). The salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. An excellent benefit package is included.
