To Whom It May Concern:

It has recently come to our attention that an unauthorized third party has attempted to obtain access to, and may have accessed, the personal information of customers of the MLSGear.com website, including approximately 169 accounts with a registered address in the State of New Hampshire.

Based upon the forensic audit we commissioned upon the request of Visa and MasterCard, our current understanding of this situation is that these third parties used SQL Injection attacks between January and August 2007, and may have obtained names, addresses, credit and debit card information, and MLSGear.com passwords, that had been stored on computer servers operated by a third party service provider. We deeply regret this incident. We have a zero tolerance policy when it comes to protection of our customers' personal information and consequently, we are terminating our relationship with that e-commerce provider. We have also taken immediate steps to further strengthen our already stringent security measures to safeguard the privacy of customer personal and credit information, including purging all passwords.

We are notifying on approximately February 1, 2008, all customers whose information was potentially affected by the above-described activity. I attach a copy of the notice that we are sending to affected New Hampshire customers. In addition, we have arranged for and are offering to all affected customers one year of credit monitoring services and, if necessary, credit restoration with Kroll Background America, Inc., free to the customer.

We have also contacted federal law enforcement, and are currently working with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Further, we are working with VISA, Mastercard, and Chase Paymentech, our credit card payment processor, on this issue.

Please be assured that MLSGear.com remains committed to ensuring the safety and security of our customers' sensitive personal information. Please feel free to contact me at (212) 875-3784.

Sincerely,
